DEATH

Claims Most Rev. John Lancaster Spalding After Long Illness.

Was Native of Lebanon and Ordained in Louisville Cathedral.

Won Distinction as Arbitrator and Friend of Working Class.

FRIEND OF THE COLORED RACE

Solemn and impressive ceremonies attended the burial at Peoria of the Most Rev. Archbishop John Lancaster Spalding, who died last Friday following a long illness. Services were held Tuesday morning in St. Mary's Cathedral, where he presided for many years as Bishop of Peoria. Solemn pontifical requiem high mass was celebrated by the Right Rev. Edmund M. Dunne, Bishop of Peoria, assisted by the Very Rev. D. J. Riordan, of Chicago, as deacon of the mass. The funeral oration immediately following the mass was delivered by the Most Rev. George W. Mundelein, D. D., Archbishop of Chicago.

Escorted by uniformed guards the body was taken to the cemetery and placed in a temporary vault pending the construction of a permanent memorial chapel planned by Archbishop Spalding before his death. Among the dignitaries present were Archbishop Moeller, of Cincinnati; Bishop Browne, of Covington; Bishop Fitzmaurice, of Erie, and Coadjutor Kelly, of the Bishopric of Detroit. Flags flew at half-mast in Peoria and many business places were closed at the hour of the funeral.

A solemn requiem high mass for Archbishop Spalding was held at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Augustine's church, Thirteenth and Broadway. Thirty priests took part, and representatives from the various convents of Louisville and vicinity were present. Bishop O'Donoghue preached the sermon and the Rev. Francis Pelton celebrated the mass, while the Rev. C. P. Raffo was deacon. The Rev. George Schumann was master of ceremonies.

The late Archbishop was the founder of St. Augustine's church, and his work during his stay in Louisville was told by Bishop O'Donoghue. Many friends of the Spalding family attended the mass. John Lancaster Spalding was born June 2, 1840, in Lebanon, Ky. Early in the days of his boyhood he began to show signs of the priestly vocation and set about fitting himself for that calling. He took his preparatory course at St. Mary's College, near Lebanon, after which he went to St. Mary's College, Emmetsburg, and from there to Mount St. Mary's at Cincinnati. Young Spalding then attended the Catholic College at Louvain, Belgium. Among his classmates at this latter institution was Archbishop Riordan, of San Francisco. During the next year young Spalding went to school in Rome, where he completed his studies preparatory to being ordained.

In 1865 he was ordained a priest with solemn services at the Cathedral of the Assumption in Louisville. Even at that time his genius was manifested and the fact that he promised to become a scholar of rare attainments came to the attention of Archbishop Blanchet, of Oregon, who chose him as his theologian at the second Plenary Council at Baltimore in 1866. With Father Hecker, the Paulist priest, and Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, he was selected to preach at the council. He was at this time but twenty-six years old and the honor attached to his selection soon gained him nation-wide fame. He returned to Louisville at the conclusion of the council at Baltimore and became a priest of the Cathedral. While in this capacity he devoted his labors to securing a church for negroes. At that time St. Augustine's parish, then on Broadway, near Fourteenth street, was a mixed parish, the congregation being both white and colored. Father Spalding set about to establish a negro church. The result was the founding of the new St. Augustine's church near the same location devoted only to the negroes in 1868. Father Spalding became pastor of this church, serving in that capacity for one year.

In 1872 death claimed his illustrious uncle, the late Archbishop M. J. Spalding, for years one of the foremost figures in the Catholic world and who was known internationally as one of the most learned men of America. Father Spalding then left his parish in Louisville and went to live at the House of Paulist Fathers in New York City until his uncle's biography was completed. Father Spalding never returned to Kentucky as a priest, but from the metropolis, where he was an assistant priest, he came to the newly erected diocese of Peoria. He accepted the responsibility and was consecrated Bishop of Peoria in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York City, May 1, 1877. Here his work in the annals of the Catholic church has been splendid. Schools, churches and charitable institutions sprung up everywhere; winning parishes waxed again and a strong and purposeful priesthood had been formed soon after he was intrusted to guide the destinies of the church. At the time he took charge of the Peoria diocese there were fifty-one churches in the district. At his death there were 250 churches.

CATHOLIC TEACHING.

From an article on the functions of the Catholic schools and their place in the general educational system of the country, written by the Rev. John J. Wynne, editor of the Catholic Encyclopedia, we take the following excerpts:

Those who regulate, as well as those who teach in Catholic schools, are not accustomed to think of competing with the public schools. Now and then there is a friendly competition, but it is never motivated by antagonism. Occasionally some one speaks of the public schools as "godless," but that does not mean that every Catholic is prompted to detract the good work they are doing. Surely it would bring censure on any teacher in the Catholic schools to speak disparagingly of a public school or of its pupils.

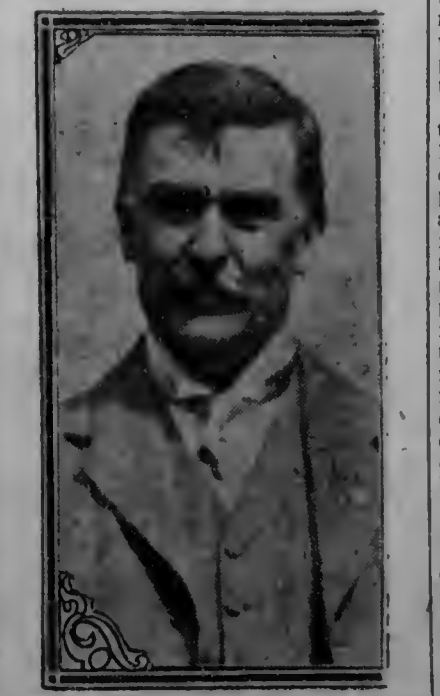

Many a Catholic priest and Bishop has received his education in the schools, and vast numbers of their teachers have been educated in Catholic schools. There is no occasion for mutual mistrust or antagonism between the two systems. It is rare to find a public school principal or teacher who does not appreciate the value of religion in education and deplore the fact that it is not practicable to provide for the proper religious training of every child.

For the Sunday-school is not enough, and the home is not always so circumstanced that it can provide thorough and systematic training of this sort. Even an extra hour or so added to the ordinary school time every day, as advocated by some who favor the Gary system, will not satisfy the needs of the children. To be effective religion must be an integral part of any school course, and it must be taught by those who live it in experience as well as by profession.

To say that it is impossible to make it part of an educational course is proved false by the fact that in over 7,000 educational institutions it is a part, and taught in such a manner as to influence the conduct of the pupils. Why claim that it must be forever ostracized in common school programmes of study, because it is impossible to teach any one religion that will satisfy all? Is it possible to teach any one system of philosophy that will satisfy all? Or is there any course of history that will satisfy all? Those who appreciate its value find no difficulty in determining how to teach it.

It is admitted on all sides that Catholics have found a way of giving religious formation to their children. They did not do so without sacrifice and hardship; but they have been amply rewarded. They know now what influence it is that keeps their homes together, not scattered by divorce and not depleted of children. They know also why it is their churches are never empty during divine service, and why in most churches several services are necessary to satisfy congregation after congregation. It used to be predicted that as the generations of immigrants with their Old World faith disappeared, the new generation born on this soil would be indifferent, if not creedless. Owing to the Catholic school the prediction has been more than falsified as each new generation appears.

The Catholic school system is now strongly established throughout the country and it is growing rapidly in number and organization. In 1910 there were 4,845 Catholic schools; in five years there were 1,043 more. Then there were 1,237,251 pupils; now there are 2,606,698 more, and the signs are that they will grow still more rapidly and solidly during the next five years. No intelligent Catholic now questions the wisdom of the system or begrudges the sacrifice it requires; nor is there now the pressure that thirty years ago was often exercised from without. Catholic circles to prevail on parents to shun the Catholic and patronize the public school.

CARDINAL

Declares Great Good Will Result From Recent Federation Convention.

Plan For Education of Masses Meets With Catholic Favor.

Better Understood and Appreciated Than They Have Been Heretofore.

LOYAL AND PATRIOTIC CITIZENS

Last Sunday Cardinal Farley gave expression to the following, which will be read with much interest by Catholics and all right-thinking people throughout the country:

The Catholic societies which have just finished their deliberations during "Catholic week" are organized for the purpose of providing the machinery to educate, crystallize and give expression to the opinion of the Catholic citizenship of the Nation on public questions affecting morals and religion. The purpose of these societies has been best served through their conventions just completed in New York.

These conventions have been of such importance that they have attracted the attendance of interested Catholics and laymen from all parts of the country. They are two American colleagues in the Sacred College of Cardinals, the Apostolic Delegate, the official representative in this country of the Supreme Pontiff; Archbishops, Bishops, hundreds of Monsignori and priests and thousands of interested laymen and laywomen. Those who have attended the conventions, who have spoken at the various meetings and who have been responsible for the expressions of the societies, came from all parts of the country. They are men of high character, well qualified to represent and speak for the Catholic citizenship of the nation. Very naturally these Catholics of different ranks and from different parts of the country have come to know and understand each other better.

The press of the city and of the nation, both secular and Catholic, has very kindly and generously given full and accurate reports of the proceedings and deliberations of the conventions. Nation-wide publicity has therefore been accorded to the views of these representative Catholics. As a result of this publicity our non-Catholic fellow-citizens have come to know the views of the Catholics of the nation and that we are loyal patriotic American citizens, ready and willing to make every sacrifice for our country; that we stand firmly for those things which will make for the moral and religious progress of the nation; that we seek from and are willing to give to them support in all moral movements that will tend to make this nation a better one. As a consequence the selfish and unscrupulous calumniators of the church will receive less attention and will thus be limited in their power for evil.

The outcome of the conventions may be summed up in the statement that a better understanding will exist among the Catholics of our country of all ranks on the one hand and between the Catholics and the non-Catholics on the other.

SUMMER SCHOOL.

Last Sunday was Founder's day at the Catholic Summer School at Cliff Haven. It was a day taken from the busy whirl of life to turn and wander down the vistas of the past and to give honor to those to whom the school is indebted for its present prosperity. The family gathering in the evening took the form of a Founder's day reception. The Right Rev. John P. Childwick, D. D., presided, and appropriate addresses were made by the Rev. Jo-

IRELAND

Great Ship Concerns at Belfast Employing Nearly 30,000 Hands.

Sir Edward Carson Faced With a Split Among His Own Followers.

Ulster Clergy of All Denominations Opposing the Partition Plan.

DEVLIN HAS BECOME LEADER

The following letter from Belfast to the Irish Press and News Service, the second of the series, shows the conditions in Ireland up to August 12:

The great ship concerns at Belfast are employing nearly 30,000 hands at present, which with the munition supply factors makes the one anti-Nationalist city of Ireland a bee-hive of industry as compared with neglected and suffering Dublin. But the workers are not all residents of Ireland. Many have crossed over from England and Scotland, thinking to escape conscription by working on ship construction destined for the transport service. One-third of the permanent population of Belfast is Nationalist, but they do not hold the best positions in the shipyards or factories. They have a hard time living under the oppressive taskmasters, especially since the Dublin uprisings. Many of them have been discharged for alleged sympathy with the rebels and are scorned for not enlisting. They do not pass through Sandy Row and in turn do not permit their enemies to spend their time in High street in West Belfast.

Devlin's Nationalist Club is a powerful political leader in Ireland. He is the only member of the Irish party with a Protestant democratic following and his friends claim an increased support from that element which will offset the loss of old supporters who have left him because they oppose his plan of separating portions of Ulster from the remainder of Ireland. The Ulster clergy, as a whole, of all denominations oppose the partition, and I was surprised to hear some officers of the Bank of Ulster say they much preferred home rule for all Ireland to the partition plan, which would hurt Belfast trade and banking with other sections of the country.

Sir Edward Carson is faced with a split among his own followers. The feeling over the conduct of the war has divided his supporters into two classes, one faction approving his criticism of the Government, the other appearing to believe that his course gives comfort to the enemies of the British Government in other lands. Despite all reports there is no possibility of his effecting a truce with Joseph Devlin as the bitterness of feeling between the two factions has been increased since the April rebellion and is intensified by the persecutions under the defense of the realm act and the execution of martial law.

Joseph Devlin claims credit for 22,000 Nationalist recruits for the British army in the Province of Ulster, while Sir Edward Carson says his side furnished 43,000 men. Good devils of the rival claims fix the Dublin recruits at 12,000 and the Carsonites at 30,000.

An American moves about much more freely in Belfast than in Dublin, where a constant system of espionage prevails, and on the whole I have been well treated here. Wherever you move about the city you see wounded boys, many wrecked physically for life, and you wonder what is to become of all these crippled men and their families, for more than one-half of the people of Belfast now live off war profits, pensions and relief funds. One fund distributed recently to dependents amounted to $480,000. A special hospital is being established in Belfast for men without legs or arms, solely for the use of the Ulster Volunteers.

I inquired as to the eighty-three names on the casualty lists in the town of Ballymoney and learned that all but six were Carsonites. In Armagh and Down towns the percentage was not quite so high, but nearly so. If the other British casualty lists are as high as the average Belfast losses the Allies must be losing 30,000 men per week on the Somme. Small towns in the vicinity of Belfast have reported each from fifty to 300 casualties.

ELECTS DELEGATES.

At the meeting of Division 4, A. O. H., Monday evening in Bertram street the following delegates were chosen to the State convention, which meets in this city Sunday, September 10: John H. Hennessy, Thomas Lynch, Thomas J. Langan, James J. McFiehe, Patrick Connelly and M. J. McDermott. The following are their alternates: W. J. McDonagh, James D. Perry, John J. Barry, John E. Burke and Fergus Mooney. Judge Matt O'Doherty was present and delivered a short talk on the recent uprising and present situation in Ireland. The speaker said that although one must admire Pearse, his bravery and heroism against overwhelming odds, yet their act was one of supreme folly. Judge O'Doherty said that Redmond, Devlin, Dillon and their followers were being condemned and criticized in every Irish gathering today, yet he believed that they had taken the right step in advising the Irish to support and fight for England in the present war. He also cited the fact that the execution and wholesale murders of the Irish rebellionists was but another example of the thick-headed, brutal policy of the English Government, but that Government was at the bar of public opinion today and the world looks forward to the granting of Irish freedom. At the close of the meeting the division marched to the Dominican church, where President John Hennessy presided. It would be impossible to tell the number of those who took part in the procession. The division chaplain, Rev. Father Joseph T. Keely, presided.

RETURN THANKS.

To all the Workers and Contributors to the St. Joseph's Orphan Society. We are pleased to announce that the annual picnic of St. Joseph's Orphan Society was a pronounced success in every way. In spite of the inclement weather thousands thronged the picnic grounds of St. Joseph's Orphan Home. It would be impossible to thank every worker and donor personally, so we take this means to publicly express our appreciation to all who in any way contributed to the success of the picnic. The committees who attended the preliminary meetings, solicited donations and worked for the success of the picnic, are especially entitled to praise because of the extra work necessary in holding the festival on the second day. We pray that the Almighty God will shower his blessings upon them, and thus reward them for their sacrifice and labor.

St. Joseph's Orphan Society. Following are the names of those to whom awards were made: Mrs. J. Goby, 1031 Brook; Alberts, 1126 West Market; Edward M. Miller, 1227 Floyd; Miss Edna Rauch, 2322 Rowan; Margaret Hemphill, 1816 Dumesnil; Phil J. Fleig, 730 South Shelby; W. H. Senn, Shively; William Macke, Underhill and Dupuy; Miss Dora Schildt, 1431 Highland; W. L. Specht, Jr., 2230 Frankfort; S. M. Raffo, 416 West Market; A. K. Specht, 2420 Frankfort; Frank A. Geher, 215 West Market; Mrs. Charles Sauter, 721 East Broadway; George Gueda, 733 Vine; Joseph Hubbuch, Rev. Louis C. O'Hea, Ben G. Hoenges, 606 East Broadway; Lee Schulz, Wenzel and Jefferson; Robert G. Bosse, 510 Febr avenue.

GEN. SARRAILL, commander of the allied armies at Salonika now advancing.

WELCOME VISITOR.

The Rev. Father John B. Kelly, O. P., of Houston, Texas, has been spending the past week at the Dominican convent on Sixth street. Father Kelly is a native of this city and a nephew of Judge Matthew O'Doherty and has a wide circle of Louisville friends who were glad to greet him.

INDEPENDENT

And Progressive Voters Drifting to Support of Democratic Nominee.

Yule Professor Cites Reasons Why Independents Prefer Wilson.

Republican Press and Leaders Can't Inject Life Into the Campaign.

DEMOCRATS OPPOSE PERCY HALY

That the Independent and Bull Moose voters are drifting to Wilson in the Presidential race is evidenced by the daily notices of this and that prominent Progressive or Independent voter declaring that he will support the Democratic nominee, their attitude showing that they had waited for the Hughes campaign speeches and the announcement of his personal platform. That they have been grievously disappointed in the utterances of the former Supreme Justice is plain to everyone. Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale, an independent voter of national reputation, who was present at all three of the national conventions and at Mr. Hughes' ceremony of acceptance, has published a statement consisting of ten reasons why he will support Wilson, one of his ten reasons being in support of the above argument, and the sentiment is typical of the average Progressive and independent voter. Prof. Fisher says:

"Like many other voters, I am repelled, rather than attracted by a campaign of carping criticism in which the speeches of the Republican candidate consist chiefly of fault-finding, even where faults are not to be found, ignoring virtues, even where they are obvious, and proposing nothing definite of his own. Ridicule is a cheap political device which ill befits Mr. Hughes. "No human administration was ever faultless, and I, for one, respect Mr. Wilson for his frankness in publicly correcting himself, and even where there is no reason for being convinced of error. It is the fool who never changes his mind and the knave who never admits it. I find myself losing respect for certain politicians who claim infallibility, whether by reason of pride, cowardice or political prudence, and yet make their own mistakes every day."

The Republicans themselves are sadly disappointed in the Hughes campaign thus far and the bosses of the party are kicking themselves for fair. They realize now that they were imposed upon, that Hughes as a candidate is a 100 per cent. lemon, and that a more successful canvass could have been made by Senator Weeks, Senator Cummins or any other of the prominent convention possibilities. To make it all the more humiliating, if Hughes is elected they are not sure of their prestige as bosses, so between their uncertain future and the dead campaign of the ice water wars, Hughes and Fairbanks, the G. O. P. is in a way.

It is amusing to read the Republican press, which tells of "ringing" speeches of the Republican candidate, the paid press agents writing this having the line of their life trying to inject life into the campaign. Our local Louisville Herald, which said before the convention that "Hughes didn't call for much," is now laboriously trying to obey the voice of its master, but it is some task. For the good of the Democratic party here in Kentucky a quietus should be put upon the controversy over election commissioners, etc., the whole doing the party no good, and the issue at stake will be of no consequence if the party should become the minority party because of factional fights. To the average Democrat the attitude of Gov. Stanley seems right in opposing the interference in party affairs of Percy Haly, who was placed on the shelf for good and all by the Democracy of Kentucky last year, and the thread by which he still hangs on is due to Beckham's seat in the Senate. That honor, as everyone knows, was due to the misguided attitude of some Democrats in the primary of 1914, and there is no chance of that mistake ever being repeated. In opposing the attempt of Percy Haly to again get in the Democratic party councils the members of that party are with Gov. Stanley, right or wrong.

INTO NEW HOME.

The undertaking establishment of Gran W. Smith's Son, for many years located at Eighth and Jefferson, was this week moved into handsome and modern equipped quarters at Sixth and Zane streets. This is the oldest continuous undertaking firm in the city, being established in 1832 by J. V. W. Smith, grandfather of A. W. Smith, the present proprietor. The building is large and contains all the improvements and everything connected with an up-to-date undertaking business.

THEY WERE OPEN.

Unlike the society of mischief-makers, pseudo patriots and two-bit exploiters, the meetings of the American Federation of Catholic Societies were open at all times and politics were unheard of. No resolutions endorsing Hughes were passed, as some outsiders assume, nor was the watchful waiting theory condemned with its author, and with impunity.

NATIONAL BULWARK.

Any system of education which overlooks the religious training of the young, no matter how perfect in other respects, suffers from a radical defect. The parochial school makes no such mistake. Within its limits it gives its pupils the answers to the problems they will be called upon to solve. It trains its children for the battle of life, it remembers their eternal destiny and prepares them for their position as citizens of the great country where the Providence of God has cast their lot. The formation of the man, the Christian, the citizen, is the ideal it has in view. Intellectual, religious, civic preparedness, this is its watchword. And it is because it thus rounds the pupil for his tasks, duties, responsibilities and rights that we claim for it a position of honor among our educational forces. Not every thing is perfect in the actual working of the system. Is there any chain of schools, any organization for the training of youth where shortcomings must not be recorded? But the system as a whole is sound. Owing to the religious training which it gives, it does a work of national importance, one which the nation has been too slow to recognize.

LITTLE CHECK.

We decline to trespass on a question which has been granted respect of late, says the Southern Guardian, but if anyone thought that Mr. Hughes, the Republican candidate for President, would take up the Catholic grievance in Mexico, his two speeches already delivered hold out slight hope in that direction. The notification reply, spoken immediately after the nomination, reminded all and sundry that the brand of Americanism he preached would not tolerate race or creed interference. The speech delivered in New York, on the occasion of his acceptance of the nomination in formal manner, dwelt long upon the troubles of our Southern neighbor, but the Catholic would look in vain for even the most remote allusion to any consciousness on the orator's part that he knew representatives of our faith had been maltreated. In any event he knows nothing of any crime except those committed against Americans. To such maltreatment he did allude, and if any of our faithful are included in the number then to them he promised—well just what he promised it would be hard to say, since he spoke in most general terms.

RESENTMENT INCREASING.

An article which appeared originally in the Manchester Guardian has been given wide circulation in the American and Irish press. That suspicion of England's policies, together with deep resentment of England's blunders or worse, is daily growing in the United States, says the Guardian, can not be denied. Nor can it be quietly ignored, for if any lasting peace is to be secured through an international league of the Powers the sympathetic co-operation of the United States is absolutely necessary. At the outset of the war the balance of public favor inclined, thinks the writer, to the cause of the Allies. "That sympathy was sacrificed," and for the loss, the British orders-in-council, many of which betrayed a lamentable want of statesmanship, are largely responsible. With them came the censorship, the arbitrary blacklist, the annoying and damaging interference with neutral mails, which in no wise tended to soothe the soreness occasioned by earlier blunders. Yet "these matters are comparatively unimportant in days such as these," continues the Manchester critic. "If there were nothing else to be considered we would be justified in believing that there was no reason for a serious change in Anglo-American relations." In the writer's opinion above all other influences working against us in America is the memory of the Irish revolt. For that unfortunate "lapse of statesmanship," when the Cabinet forgot its first impulse towards clemency, there would seem to be no hope of a speedy remedy. England's policy towards Ireland, especially as expressed in "the reign of Sir John Maxwell at Dublin," is responsible for the change from the earlier sympathy, a change that is likely to last "until the end of the war, or until such time as a complete change can be brought about in our Irish policy."

SATISFACTORY.

The acceptance by the trainmen of the Adamson eight-hour bill and the intent of Congress and the Senate to pass that bill today should avert the threatened disaster of the great railroad strike. For which the American people will be duly grateful, and say what you may, the result is a tribute to President Wilson's efforts.

BETTER RESULTS HOPED.

The public at large and tobacco men are pleased with the efforts of Senators James, Beckham and the delegation of Congressmen who are planning to adopt methods of retaliation for the latest outrage of Great Britain in placing an embargo on tobacco to even neutral countries. It is hoped that the interests of the Kentucky Senators will be livelier than in the Roger Casement resolution for clemency, for which neither voted, and although passed was not sent to London until after Casement was hanged.

The Socialists are against preparedness and national defense. Their doctrine is that the workers have no country to lose, no country to defend. Combatting the Socialists and their anarchistic principles furnishes a sphere for the Junior Order and Guardians of Liberty, who then might do better than they have thus far attempted.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.

Tuesday night at St. Martin's Hall the St. Martin's Brudersbund celebrated the forty-fourth anniversary with the largest and happiest gathering in its history. Capt. Oscar Maier presided as toastmaster, and in welcoming the members and their friends stated that they were there for an evening of pleasure and invited those not members to become affiliated. After the reading of a congratulatory message from Rev. Father Berresheim, conveying his blessing, President Henry Bell spoke on brotherhood and the improvements and benefits derived therefrom. While paying benefits for twenty-six weeks of the year, $200 on the death of a member and $100 on the death of a wife, there still remained $7,000 in the treasury. A number of choice selections were rendered by the Holy Trinity Choral Society, a musical organization unsurpassed by any in the city. Short addresses were also made by the editor of the Kentucky Irish American and Henry Frenke. A pleasing incident was the presentation of a handsome gold badge to John Dornbusch, who has completed his twenty-five years as a member. There were frequent recesses while cigars, eatables and refreshments were served in abundance.

WITH THE SICK.

The Rev. Father Edward Boes, of Pewee Valley, is still ill at St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, but his friends will be glad to know that his condition is steadily improving.

Thursday letters from Rome, Ind., brought the welcome news that the Rev. H. W. Jansen, pastor of St. Bridget's church, is recovering from his illness and may shortly be able to return home.

SERVICE AMONG INDIANS.
This is the fortieth year of service among the North Dakota Sioux Indians for the Rev. Jerome Hunt, O. S. B., the missionary of Fort Totten in the Devil's Lake Agency. Forty years ago Father Jerome came to Fort Yates from Indiana, accompanied by Brother Giles, who has been his faithful friend, companion and helpmate all these years.

What They Have Been Doing
the Past Week—General
News Notes.

The National Board may order New York State reorganized. The New York trouble still remains the cause for worry. The State convention meets here tomorrow at St. Patrick's new hall. Every member of Division 1 feels elated over the results of the last meeting.

Ohio will assess its members twenty-five cents per capita for the Irish relief fund. R. J. Fleming was the New Albany delegate to the Indiana State convention at South Bend. During the past two years New York State expended nearly $63,000 for sick and funeral benefits.

Division 3 held its first meeting of the month last night, meeting now on the first and third Friday. Brooklyn had the largest delegation in the New York State convention, casting twenty-seven votes. Great preparations have been made for the Missouri State convention which meets tomorrow at St. Joseph.

The Ohio State convention sent the Pope a cablegram expressing fealty and devotion and asking his benediction. Councilman Mike McDermott denies that he and twenty-five others at a recent sitting. He says it was only fifteen.

The Ohio Hibernian Rifles, six companies, held their encampment near Zanesville when the State convention met there. Members of Division 1 express a determination to begin work to regain their prestige and again take first place in the order.

The order will march in a body in the procession Sunday, September 24, the golden jubilee celebration of St. Michael's church. Eighteen hundred members of the order and their families attended the annual reunion of the three divisions at Duluth, Minn.

At the Massachusetts State convention there were nearly 600 delegates from the Ancient Order and over 400 from the Ladies' Auxiliaries. Daniel Murphy, who fifty years ago was the first State President, was an interested visitor at the Massachusetts convention at Lowell.

Division 4 furnished a guard of honor for its deceased chaplain, Rev. Father Keely, who lay in state Sunday and Monday evenings. Rev. M. A. Shine, State President, will call the Nebraska State convention tomorrow afternoon at Omaha. A banquet will be given in the evening.

Matt O'Brien, Division 3's Recording Secretary, can get a big attendance with his circular letters any old time. There is a direct appeal in every line.

Port Wayne was well represented at the Indiana State convention. The delegation was headed by State Treasurer Robert E. Kelly and County President James B. Cahill.

A great gathering of Hibernians and their friends expected at St. Paul when the Minnesota State convention opens on September 19. The Ladies' Auxiliary will also meet there the same time.

The mass for the State convention will be celebrated at St. Patrick's church at 7:30 tomorrow morning by the Rev. Father McCaffrey of Covington, the State Chaplain. All members who can are urged to be present.

Resolutions were passed at the State convention of the Maryland A. O. H. this past week asking for a sweeping Federal investigation into the delay in transmission of the Senate resolution in behalf of Casement, the resolution having been prepared in plenty of time, but had not been received in London until after the execution. Mrs. Agnes Newman, of Philadelphia, sister of Sir Roger Casement, brought the delegates into an upsurge of indignation when she told of the disgraceful treatment accorded her by the British Government.

The ladies of St. William's parish are busily engaged in making preparations for a card party and social evening in the hall at Thirteenth and Oak on Friday night, September 22, the proceeds of which will be for the benefit of the church. At the initial meeting a number volunteered their services and will arrange attractions that will surpass those of preceding years.

RECENT DEATHS.

Funeral services for John E. Kehl, 835 Marshall street, who fell victim to tuberculosis, were held Monday morning at St. John's church. Deceased was forty-seven years old and left a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Rosa Kehl; four daughters, Misses Ruth, Clara, Catherine and Julia Kehl; and two sons, Elmer and Edward Kehl.

The funeral of Herman G. Deutch, a well known citizen of the West End, who died of dropsy at his home, 2821 Montgomery street, took place Tuesday morning from the Church of Our Lady, Rev. Father Conniff conducting the solemn obsequies. Besides his wife, Mrs. Florence Bannon Deutch, he is survived by three daughters, Martha, Marian and Margaret Deutch, and a son, Casin Deutch.

SEPTEMBER INTENTION.

The general intention recommended by His Holiness Pope Benedict XV. for the League of the Sacred Heart during September. The church has always at heart the welfare of her boys and young men. In a few years they will be the fathers of our Catholic families and the vigor and growth of Catholicity will depend on their faith and loyalty. If they are not safeguarded, especially in these days of indifference and immorality, the near future will see the church without defenders against the enemies of religion. Boys and young men need recreation, amusement and instruction. By organization into societies it is possible to provide all these on an elaborate scale at slight expense to the individual member. We are asked to pray for the prosperity and increased growth of the societies we have for a greater spirit of cooperation between the various parishes and dioceses, and for a more generous response to the needs of such organizations on the part of our wealthier Catholics. May the day soon come that will find all of our Catholic youth enrolled in Catholic societies!

ORDER AS TO MUSIC.

Right Rev. Bishop Brossart has issued a pastoral letter ordering the restoration of Gregorian music in every Catholic church of the Covington diocese. Bishop Brossart in his letter also ordered that the reading of music be made an obligatory part of the school system, commencing September 1.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

Omaha Council had 200 seats last Saturday at Rourke Park as a boost for the Omaha baseball team, now leading the Western League.

Plans are being drawn up for a big celebration of Columbus day at Sioux City.

"Every member get a member" is the campaign slogan of the Knights of Portland, Ore.

Ohio Knights held their annual State outing this week at Cedar Point. Tiffin Council had charge.

Omaha Council has tendered its services and will assist upon the occasion of Bishop Hart's arrival next November. The International Typographical Union has voted that subordinate unions recognize Columbus day as a public holiday.

Formal opening of the new home of the Knights of Fulton, N. Y., was made the occasion of a big night for the public on Tuesday of last week.

Under the direction of Supreme Agent William Moriarty nine social centers have been constructed for Catholic troops on the Mexican border. At least six more are contemplated.

The order has opened a field station or club house near the principal entrance to Camp Wilson at San Antonio, Texas, for the use of the thousands of soldiers now encamped there.

The Knights of Columbus of Wisconsin have organized and had chartered the Columbus Cadets. Formed on a military and educational plan, Archbishop Messmer and thirty-three pastors have given their approval.

Secretary Al F. O'Hern, of Davenport, expresses appreciation of the Kentucky Irish American for its kindness in giving publicity to the various press notices sent out previous to the convention of the Supreme Council.

FALL LAWN FETE.

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Leo's church, Highland Park, are making every possible arrangement for the entertainment of a monster gathering on the occasion of their fall lawn fete, to be held on September 12-13. This year's affair will be much like a harvest festival, with all that is good to eat and a large number of amusing attractions. All friends of the pastor, Rev. Father Fitzgerald, and the congregation will be given a hearty welcome.

EUCHE and LOTTO.

A euche and lotto party will be given in St. Charles Borromeo church hall next Monday evening. Games called at 8:15 o'clock. Handsome prizes will be distributed.

COVINGTON.

The annual parade of the Holy Name Society of Covington, which is expected to be the largest there this year, will take place on Sunday, September 24. Louis Ober will be Grand Marshal.

Rev. Father Albert Rabe, who returned this week from Switzerland, where he has studied for the priesthood, will read his first high mass tomorrow morning at St. Aloysius church.

FINEST CHURCH.

Mexico City is a town of historic interest, while its Cathedral is regarded as the handsomest church on the American continent. The foundation stone of this edifice was laid in 1593 on the site of a former heathen temple.

TWIN CITY FINALS.

The Twin City League will close its season with a double-header bill tomorrow afternoon, the extra game being because of the postponement on July 16 in honor of Twin City day at Eclipse Park. The results tomorrow will hardly make any change in the final standing, the K. of C. team being assured of the pennant, while Mackin would have to lose two white the Champs were winning both to even cause a tie for second honors. The Knights won the flag through their hitting ability and good pitching of Mattingly. Mackin finished high because of the phenomenal pitching of "Bobby" Morris, no ranking as the star twirler of the league. The Champs started off with their old-time dash, but lost a lot of "pep" in the last six weeks, falling off greatly in their hitting. The Imperials played a nice even game all season and deserve honorable mention, while the failure of the Bertrands to finish higher can be attributed to the injury to Ray Haragan's pitching arm. Manager Murphy's Olympics played good ball in spots only, while the Orioles changed lineups too frequent to be successful. It is hard to furnish an alibi for Trinity and their loss of nineteen straight games unless they were after Connie Mack's record of twenty straight. Tomorrow they play as follows: Bertrands vs. Champs, K. of C. vs. Mackin, Olympics vs. Imperials, and Trinity vs. Orioles. The standing to date:

Clubs.	W.	L.	Pct.
K. of C.	17	2	.847
Mackin	14	5	.737
Champs	10	7	.582
Imperials	10	9	.526
Bertrands	9	10	.474
Olympics	8	11	.421
Orioles	6	13	.316
Trinity	0	19	.000

UP TO FANS.

The Louisville club is at home today after making their last road trip memorable in association history, winning two-thirds of their games, which is a splendid record when it is taken into consideration that they played through the entire circuit of cities and in Indianapolis twice. Owner Wntzen has done his part, the players on the club have done theirs, and it is now up to the fans to show their appreciation. Beginning today with a four-game series with Toledo, the Colonels will play every club in the league, winding up the season here with a double-header on October 1. They have a grand chance for the pennant flag, better than any other club in the league. The players are in condition to do their part, but the cordial support and rooting of the fans will help a long way. Toledo will close here Monday with a double-header, followed by Minneapolis for a three-game series, and as the Cantillon club has taken on new life some hot games are expected.

MORRIS' FRIENDS BUSY.

All three of the leaders in the Twin City League popularity contest went to the bat this week, the biggest gain being made by "Bob" Morris, Mackin Council's star pitcher, his friends turning in over two hundred votes and his campaign manager intimated that they hadn't shot their full bolt. Popular Ray Haragan retained the lead with another bunch of votes, while the Twin City's efficient and modest little Secretary, Eddie Steinbock, achieved the distinction of receiving the largest number of clipped ballots turned in in any one week. Johnnie Kenealey of the K. of C., John Scully of the Olympics, and Killoran of the Orioles are within striking distance of the leaders, while Manager Coleman, of the Champs, and his two lieutenants, O'Brien and Sheehan, have quite a following. As stated before, the contest will close September 30, being less than a month for the friends and followers of the boys to get busy. In answer to a query that in the event St. Louis or Chicago won the pennant in the American League would the winners be sent there in preference to the Eastern winner in the National League, it is now a foregone conclusion that Brooklyn, Boston or Philadelphia will win the National League pennant and we wish to state that the two winners will be sent to one of those cities, giving them the benefit of the long trip and a vacation in the big show. The standing to date:

FERRY CLOSING MONDAY.

Monday marks the closing of Fontaine Ferry Park for the 1916 season. It has been a most successful one for the popular resort and all the attractions and devices report a banner season. For Sunday and Monday a banner bill of fifteen acts of semi-professional talent is promised. On Monday, Labor day, no admission will be charged to the park in either the afternoon or evening. Outdoor music will be heard both Sunday and Labor day.

DIAMOND JUBILEE.

Diamond jubilee year at Notre Dame University promises to be of nation-wide interest if the comprehensive plans of Dr. John Cavanaugh, C. S. C., President of the university, are fully realized. The three great American Cardinals, Gibbons, Farley and O'Connell; the American hierarchy, Governors of States, who will be entertained by the various State clubs at the big school; ex-Presidents Taft and Roosevelt, the laetare medalists and as large a number as possible of Notre Dame's alumni, are expected to attend. Several new university buildings will be dedicated also as features of the jubilee year. Pageants showing the history and development of the university from a small Indian mission will be staged during the year. Still another feature will be the conferring of the largest number of degrees in any one year in the history of the school. The graduating class is the largest known at Notre Dame. Possibly Chief Justice White, of the United States Supreme Court, is the best known among the Notre Dame laetare medalists, three of whom have died recently—Thomas Mulry, of New York; Judge Timothy E. Howard, of South Bend, Ind., and Dr. John E. Murphy, of Chicago.

SLEUTH'S SAD FATE.

Detective Tommy Yourell, the popular sleuth of the local detective department, has had many nice bouquets handed him in the past year for his criminal catching abilities, and his friends pointed him out as being immune from law breakers, but alas and alack! our sleuth went to Cincinnati and while taking in the sights, sad to say, was robbed of his watch, the pin and wallet. Tommy tried to keep it dark, but the news leaked out and he has been the recipient of some tall spoofing here. In defense he says that the best of them slip once in a while and cites the different adventures of Nick Carter, Sherlock Holmes and Cap Collier, who were baffled by criminals at some time or another.

STATE FAIR.

For the Kentucky State Fair, which opens here September 11, premiums aggregating $40,000 have been announced by Secretary Gooch. Of this amount $15,000 is provided by appropriation of the Legislature, and the remainder added by the State Fair Board or contributed by various public-spirited citizens in the State. In all there will be 6,612 awards, or an average of 1,102 every day for six days. Secretary Gooch and his assistants are working night and day and feel confident this will be the most successful State Fair yet held in Kentucky.

GOLDEN JUBILEE.

On Sunday, September 17, St. Charles the Great Benevolent Society of St. Martin's church will celebrate its golden jubilee, or the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the organization. The arrangements for the jubilee celebration are in charge of a committee composed of John B. Stark, Chairman; Clem Schilt, Henry Bosse, Adam Miller, Stephen J. Schaedler, Mace Goss, H. Brinkhaus, John Dodi, B. W. Obermeier, C. Leismann, J. Bredehann and William P. McDonogh, with President Peter Hoffmann and J. Herman Blumers as members ex-officio.
